Purple for Parents United Joins International Coalition to Combat Global Sexualization Agenda

Indiana, USA — Purple for Parents United proudly announces its partnership with the newly launched International Coalition4Children, a global alliance of parental rights and child protection organizations committed to resisting the World Health Organization's Comprehensive Sexuality Education (CSE) framework.

This powerful coalition unites leaders and organizations from around the world—including Ireland, Wales, Scotland, England, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and the United States—in a coordinated response to international efforts that threaten childhood innocence and violate parental sovereignty.

“As a grassroots movement birthed by parents, for parents, we are honored to link arms with like-minded defenders of truth and childhood,” said Rhonda Miller, CEO and President of Purple for Parents United. “Our children deserve to be protected—not sexualized, manipulated, or indoctrinated by radical agendas disguised as education.”

The International Coalition4Children rejects the WHO's global CSE guidelines, which critics argue promote early sexualization, distort biological reality, and erode parental authority. Instead, the coalition champions policies rooted in biology, morality, national sovereignty, and the natural family structure.

Purple for Parents United joins this international alliance with a clear mission:

- To protect childhood innocence
- To uphold parental rights and moral responsibility
- To restore the rightful role of the family in education and development

“As a voice for families across America, Purple for Parents is committed to exposing harmful ideologies and equipping parents to stand for their children,” Miller added. “This international partnership sends a clear message: We will not allow our children to be sacrificed at the altar of globalist agendas.”

Together with coalition partners, Purple for Parents United will continue to engage lawmakers, launch educational campaigns, and confront institutional policies that compromise the physical, spiritual, and moral well-being of the next generation.
